

LYNN SMARR

Lynn Smarr earned her B.S. in civil engineering from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge in 1986. She began her career with Gwinnett County as an office engineer with, at that time, the Gwinnett County Water System in 1987, and has now been with the County for 22 years.

Lynn is currently serving as the acting director for the Gwinnett County Department of Water Resources, which produces and distributes drinking water, collects and treats wastewater and manages the Stormwater Utility for over 800,000 citizens in Gwinnett County.

Lynn was honored to be included with a dozen and half women from across the country in March 2006 by the American Water Works Association during its 125th anniversary celebration in the article “Women and Water: Making Waves in the Industry”.
